

ken this law! We as citizens have the right not to be bothered in our homes by annoying telemarketers who are unsolicited and unwanted. Why should I be required to to purchase additional equipment so that I can identify possible incoming annoying calls and be bothered by the ring of the phone especially during the dinner hours????

When door to door salesman where more prevalent a home owner could hang a "No Solicitors" sign in front of the house. The Telephone Consumer Protection Act is my telephone version of a "No Solicitors" sign!
